IT was a startling, if gratifying, experience to see the label of a "world force" attached to Israel in the editor-organizing columns of the People's paper.

While every country, big and little, can and should contribute to the process of global emancipation, ultimate success will obviously depend on the goodwill and good sense of the most highly industrialized Great Powers.

The forthcoming Summit Conference will be held under the dominion of mutual fears. The possessors of atomic arms live in dread lest a nuclear holocaust be set off by some political miscalculation or technical mischance on the one side or the other.

There is something to be said for fears that tend to discourage aggressive ambition; but during peace cannot be built on negative factors. As with individuals, so also with society as a whole, avoidance of suicide is not a sufficient objective to make life worthwhile.

When the "Big Four" meet in Paris next month they might try to consider the possibility of calling a global conference dedicated to the problems of the underdeveloped nations.

When the "Big Four" meet in Paris next month they might try to consider the possibility of calling a global conference dedicated to the problems of the underdeveloped nations. Since size of territory and population are not the most important assets in the realm of ideas, Israel has been able to serve as a pathfinder in this respect: she has convened the International Conference on the Advancement of Science in Rehovot next August.

It is — or should be — obvious that paternalism on the part of the "haves" to the "have-nots" cannot produce satisfactory results. There must be full consultation, and also, in many cases, give-and-take, an exchange of spiritual as well as material values.

Aranne Resignation Accepted by Cabinet

Jerusalem Post Political Reporter
The Cabinet on Sunday accepted with regret the resignation of Mr. Zalman Aranne and decided that the Prime Minister should serve "temporarily" as Minister of Education and Culture.

It is believed that this will leave the door open for Mr. Aranne to return when the necessary conditions are met. Mr. Aranne did not attend the Cabinet session and was later informed by the Government Secretary of his decision. Mr. Ben-Gurion now holds four portfolios: Prime Minister, Defense, Posts and Education.

It is understood that the Cabinet was obliged to accept Mr. Aranne's resignation in view of the formula decided by the Prime Minister on Saturday night, whereby he would become acting Minister while Mr. Aranne awaits his return from office. This is a serious matter, since the Minister is abroad or otherwise unable to fulfill his duties.

Assaf Re-Appointed
The Cabinet also re-appointed the appointment of Mr. Assaf as Deputy Minister of Education, since the resignation of a Minister entails the automatic resignation of his Deputy. Mr. Assaf, however, will be able to resume his post only after the Knesset approves the new appointment.

The Prime Minister is to make an official announcement on the resignation to the Knesset, and the House convenes on May 2. It is understood that at yesterday's Cabinet session the proposal was made for the appointment of a new Minister of Education. It is believed that if Mr. Aranne should remain in his post, his departure for his official visits to France, the Netherlands and Belgium.

Holiday in Rome
Mr. Aranne is leaving on May 2 for a three-week holiday in Rome. His trip will be entirely private. Mr. Aranne, who is 61, had served as Minister of Education since 1953.

Philippine Dancers To Extend Visit
The Philippine Dance Company has accepted the invitation of the Israel Government and have been granted permission by their own Government to extend their stay here by a week in order to take part in the Independence Day festivities.

The troupe will perform at the Ramat Gan stadium which Mrs. Helena E. Ben-Zion, President of the Association of Philippine Dancers, told The Jerusalem Post yesterday, will be a "rehearsal" for their performance in the Manila Coliseum before 25,000 spectators when they return home early in May.

Opening last night's performance at the Ramat Gan stadium, the troupe of 15 dancers and technicians took their audience by storm with their dance, grace and remarkable musical sense. They had acted up the three dances, "Kilad", "Kilad", "Kilad", in half-an-hour of rehearsal, their Director said.

RHEE RETAINS OFFICE BUT CALLS FOR CABINET

SEOUL (Reuters).—President Syngman Rhee has asked South Korean cabinet members to form a caretaker Government in the event of a possible Communist takeover. It was announced here on Sunday.

The announcement was made after the 65-year-old President said he was resigning as a result of the Communist takeover of the Republic of Korea. The development followed another day of calm after South Korea was torn by riots early last week.

Martial law headquarters announced that the death toll in the student demonstrations had risen to 108 in Seoul and to 157 in all Korea. There were small demonstrations in some Korean cities yesterday.

In Seoul, students attended the funeral service for the 10 killed in the April 20 demonstrations. In Chongju, about 200 high school students went to the funeral service for the 10 killed in the April 20 demonstrations. Mr. Rhee, 65, regarded as one of South Korea's ablest administrators, said in an interview that President Rhee had asked him to form a caretaker Cabinet to last for two or three months until a responsible Cabinet system is established. TUNIS (Reuters).—President Habib Bourguiba yesterday threatened to join the Algerian revolution against France, saying that the Tunisian people were ready to fight for the liberation of Algeria.

Saying that as a result, his country would shortly announce a change in policy with regard to the Algerian revolution, the President said it might mean war.

Nasser Fears Retaliation
NEW YORK (UPI).—Abdel Nasser said on Sunday that Egypt would not join a boycott of American ships and cargo vessels.

By Friday, it is expected that the Egyptian fleet will have sailed with its cargo ships and the boycott threat will have evaporated into empty promises of Egyptian ships to destroy Arab-American cooperation.

Nasser said that he would accept a U.N. resolution on freedom of navigation through the Canal as soon as the U.N. resolution is adopted. He indicated that he would accept a U.N. resolution on freedom of navigation through the Canal as soon as the U.N. resolution is adopted.

ALGERIAN REBEL LEADERS TO CHINA
TUNIS (Reuters).—Three Ministers of the "Algerian Provisional Government" are to visit Peking, the rebels announced here yesterday.

The delegation will consist of Kerim Belkacem, "Deputy Prime Minister" and "Minister of Foreign Affairs," and Ahmed Francis, "Finance Minister."

No information was immediately available on the date of the visit, or its purpose.

The recent announcement by the "Provisional Government" that it would accept volunteers to fight the French in Algeria was widely thought here to be aimed at providing a formal framework for acceptance of help from Communist countries, rather than at increasing rebel forces.

S. Africa Crisis Threatens World Peace

International Pressure, Which Applied, Might Retrieve Explosive Situation

By COLIN LING

Dr. Hendrik Verwoerd, premier of the 20-year-old Union of South Africa, today issued a statement in which he said that the Government would not accept the demand for a change of status of the Government of South Africa, which would be a step towards internationalization.

To say they are alarmed at the international front that opened up against them is to say the least. They are alarmed at the possibility of a change of status of the Government of South Africa, which would be a step towards internationalization.

For inside the country there is no effective challenge to the Government's position. The Government is now in a position to defend its position against the international front that opened up against them.

Extremists on Top
The weakness of the industrialists (who are greatly concerned about the internal and external dangers to the country's economy) is that 80 per cent of the financial interests are in the hands of English South Africans.

But the recognition of this fact has made things more difficult for the Government. They have been forced into the unenviable position of having to defend their position against the international front that opened up against them.

Doing the Spill
The Government is now in a position to defend its position against the international front that opened up against them.

What makes matters even worse is that moderate African politicians look like being one of the major victims of the crisis. From now on the fight is between the white Nationalists in power and the black Nationalists in an underground organization.

It could, however, bring a change of Government, but the value of such a change would be limited, because it would produce another Government pledged to keep the status quo.

Complete Uncertainty
The reaction to the latest crisis was to try to buy time, and to try to strengthen the Government.

The reported move to get the United Nations to request South Africa to hand back its mandate over South-West Africa could prove to be a legal precedent for intervention in that territory.

His threat cannot be written off lightly. If there is any conclusion one can draw with any certainty, it is that the Government will not achieve its purpose of compelling the Government to abandon its policy.

KEEPING POSTED

WE have the following new version of the Exodus, as told by a kindergarten student to her parents, who came from the United States. The Jews had a very hard time in Egypt because the Egyptians were always making them build pyramids and things.

OUR special correspondent in Amsterdam notes that the Israeli abroad community is in a state of confusion.

A THIRTEEN visitor to the Philharmonic Museum at the Old Music Festival says that it was all rather distracting. Of course the road is narrow, you have the Syrian breathing down your neck one side. He could not find anywhere to park his car and was directed down to the lake-shore.

Over the hills and down to the coast, the landscape is through colorful olive groves and agricultural production of all kinds. Cows appear very little, and yet their milk products are very high, and milk is one of the products of which there is a surplus. It is a great triumph of organization and production.
